Market Commentary:

This 3.51 ct heated Blue Sapphire presents an appealing medium-blue tone with eye-clean clarity, though with minor inclusions. The fair cushion cut results in moderate brilliance, reducing its premium value compared to well-cut stones. While the absence of a detailed origin report limits traceability, demand for Ceylon-type sapphires remains high globally. Heated stones are acceptable in the international market, but unheated gems command higher premiums. Overall, this sapphire is well-positioned within mid-range international demand, with strong retail potential in the luxury sector.
